General Comment

To whom it may concern....

I understand that a few people can misuse options in their retirement account... They can also burn their house down, make crazy bets and spend beyond their means,,, but the majority of us have taken the time to learn proper options trading. It has grown my retirement account. Proper training has taught me that option trades reduce risk, rather than increase it. Please do not pass another law to protect the idiot minority and punish those who use it wisely.
